What is Depression?

Depression is a disorder that causes someone to feel sad or unhappy over a long period of time. These emotions are more than the normal feelings of sadness we all feel sometimes.

14.8 MILLION AMERICANS SUFFER FROM MAJOR DEPRESSION*

Depression is a medical problem just like cancer or heart disease. There are natural or internal causes for depression. It is very treatable.

Depression affects you and those around you. It can lead to poor health or even suicide.

Help your provider by:
• Talking about your feelings and progress. Tell them as much as you can.
• Writing down how the medication makes you feel.
This will help you both make better choices about your treatment. If you’re ever unhappy with your treatment plan, your provider or results, call us. We can help find you a new provider to work with if needed.

Depression education and advocacy resources
National Suicide Prevention Lifeline
1-800-273-TALK (1-800-273-8255)

National Alliance for Mental Illness
www.nami.org
1-800-950-6264

National Institute of Mental Illness
www.nimh.nih.gov

U.S. Department of Health and Human Services
Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) www.mentalhealth.samhsa.gov

Contact us
We are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Please call us: 800-224-1991

www.cenpatico.com

Have Questions? Call us at 800-224-1991

* (National Institute of Mental Health, 2005)
Depression can be treated
Up to 80 percent of people treated for depression start to feel better. Most people see relief within four to six weeks of treatment. This can include medicine, therapy, support groups or a combination of treatments.

First appointment: what to expect
Your provider will want to get to know you. They will want to know the problems you want to work on. They may ask about your background. They want to help you find strengths and skills. Providers are bound by strict rules to keep your data private. What you tell your provider helps them create the right treatment plan for you.

Your role in treatment
A treatment plan is made by you and your provider and may include:
- Medicine
- Personal or family therapy
- Support from friends, family, and peers
- Talking with other providers

Ways to help yourself feel better:
- Talk to and join in with friends, family, and peers.
- Get moving! Exercise is great for your health.
- Get involved. Volunteer, pick a fun hobby, or join a group.
- Avoid drugs and alcohol.
- Plan to deal with stress before it happens.
- Set realistic goals for yourself.

Never stop taking any medication until told to do so by your provider.

Feeling Better
The key person in recovery is YOU. You and your provider should make a treatment plan based on your goals for your health.

Signs of a possible problem:
- Not sleeping or sleeping too much
- Restlessness
- Unable to focus or make decisions
- Feeling down all the time
- Feelings of worthlessness
- Fatigue or loss of energy every day
- Not eating or eating too much
- Loss of interest in favorite activities
- Thoughts of suicide

Who is Cenpatico?
We manage behavioral health benefits for vulnerable populations. We help people get support for their depression. We can help you get what you need to make smart choices for your health.

Some ways we help:
- Find providers in your area
- Make referrals
- Help you make appointments

Who offers depression services?
- Your Doctor: They can treat you or refer you to an expert.
- Psychiatrists: They are medical doctors who can give medicine.
- Nurse Practitioners: They can be experts in suicide. They can give medicine in most states.
- Therapists: They are trained in therapy and mental health testing. They can’t give medicine. Some types are Psychologists and Licensed Professional Counselors (LPC). They can also be Licensed Clinical Social Workers (LCSW) and Licensed Marriage and Family Therapists (LMFT).